

Wondering

JoAnne Growney

<https://poetrywithmathematics.blogspot.com>

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarship.claremont.edu/jhm>

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons, and the Mathematics Commons

Recommended Citation

Growney, J. "Wondering," Journal of Humanistic Mathematics, Volume 8 Issue 2 (July 2018), pages 300-300. DOI: 10.5642/jhummath.201802.34 . Available at: <https://scholarship.claremont.edu/jhm/vol8/iss2/34>

©2018 by the authors. This work is licensed under a Creative Commons License.

JHM is an open access bi-annual journal sponsored by the Claremont Center for the Mathematical

Sciences and published by the Claremont Colleges Library | ISSN 2159-8118 | <http://scholarship.claremont.edu/jhm/>

Wondering

JoAnne Growney

Is
she less known because of motherhood?—few want to pass on procreation, yet
that choice limits so many things - not for the father, for he may slip off to an office at children’s bedtimes for extra hours of thinking, for writing those ideas that never come while bathing toddlers, or diapering. Bright thoughts wait in still places
for capture-
or they float
on.

The syllable-counts for the lines of this poem follow the Fibonacci Numbers: 1-1-2-3-5-8-13-21-13-8-5-3-2-1-1.

About the poet. JoAnne Growney is a retired mathematics professor and a poet - she blogs about connections between these two favorite subjects in the blog, “Intersections - Poetry with Mathematics” at <https://poetrywithmathematics.blogspot.com>. A selection of her own mathy poems may be found at <http://joannegrowney.com> and still more in the blog.