DEDICATION

Volume 41 of Aliso is dedicated to the late Gary D. Wallace (1946–2022), Research Associate at California Botanic Garden (CalBG), Botanist with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service from 1996 until 2014, and President of Southern California Botanists. Gary was born in Pasadena, California. He studied botany at California State University Los Angeles and obtained his Ph.D. in Botany from Claremont Graduate University and California Botanic Garden in 1975. Inspired by his work on the conservation of California rare plants, Gary was instrumental in dedicating the CalBG Occasional Publications series to feature conservation plans of selected rare plant taxa. He also published articles on the history of botany in Southern California and on the taxonomy and nomenclature of Monotropoideae (Ericaceae).

In the Tribute featured in this issue, those who knew Gary have penned memories of their interactions with him. Contributions are presented in a loosely chronological order. His major contributions to California botany notwithstanding, this tribute deals with Gary as friend, mentor and colleague.
